market commentary

The UK property market grew at a modest pace. Subdued economic activity and Brexit-related uncertainties weighed on overall sentiment. Although according to Nationwide Building Society, house prices in the UK fell for the first time in seven years in the first quarter of 2019. This was primarily driven by a decline in London, which was the weakest performing region in the country, where prices fell by 3.8% annually over the quarter. Consumer confidence further hampered the UK property market amid challenging conditions over Brexit and weakened economic activity.

Very Low Low Low/Medium Medium Medium/High High Very High

All investments carry a level of risk. You need to decide how much of each type of risk you're prepared to take. The table below gives an overview of some of the risks associated with this fund.

risk type	description of risk	level of risk for this fund
Capital Risk	This is the risk that the value of your investments will fall. The younger you are, the less worried you might be about capital risk, because your investments have time to recover their value before your retire.	Med High
Inflation Risk	This is the risk that the value of your investments will grow more slowly than prices rise. Inflation can be a problem for pension savings invested in cash funds particularly if the interest you're earning is less than the rate of inflation.	Med
Pension Conversion Risk	The price of an annuity changes on a regular basis. This means that the amount of income you can secure with the same amount of money will change. Pension conversion risk is the risk that the amount of income you can buy drops before you retire, because your money is invested differently to annuity funds. That's why putting more of your DC pension pot into bonds to try to match annuity prices as you get closer to retirement age can help protect against this risk.	High
