market commentary

UK equities continued their upward trend in the second quarter, with strong gains registered in April and June. Against a weakening macroeconomic backdrop, global central banks indicated further monetary policy easing, which supported investors' appetite for higher risk assets. Comments from European Central Bank (ECB) President Mario Draghi also suggested fresh stimulus measures. Meanwhile, Brexit has been delayed until 31 October, as European leaders agreed to extend the deadline. On the policy front, the Bank of England maintained interest rates at 0.75%, even as it cautioned about increased downside risks to growth. At a sector level, technology and industrials stocks were the major gainers, while telecommunications and utilities lagged the broader market. From a style perspective, growth stocks performed better than value stocks.

Very Low Low Low/Medium Medium Medium/High High Very High

All investments carry a level of risk. You need to decide how much of each type of risk you're prepared to take. The table below gives an overview of some of the risks associated with this fund.

risk type	description of risk	level of risk for this fund
Capital Risk	This is the risk that the value of your investments will fall. The younger you are, the less worried you might be about capital risk, because your investments have time to recover their value before your retire.	High
Inflation Risk	This is the risk that the value of your investments will grow more slowly than prices rise. Inflation can be a problem for pension savings invested in cash funds particularly if the interest you're earning is less than the rate of inflation.	Med
Pension Conversion Risk	The price of an annuity changes on a regular basis. This means that the amount of income you can secure with the same amount of money will change. Pension conversion risk is the risk that the amount of income you can buy drops before you retire, because your money is invested differently to annuity funds. That's why putting more of your DC pension pot into bonds to try to match annuity prices as you get closer to retirement age can help protect against this risk.	High
